April 27 - May 8, 1992

Mayworks Celebrates the Vast and Diverse Talent of Workers and Progressive Artists Everywhere!!

The Seventh Annual

MAYWORKS

*Festival of Working People
and The Arts*

hits Toronto with over 30 events
spanning two weeks in a variety of venues ranging from community centres and union
halls to theatres and galleries.

MAYWORKS was built on the idea that working people and artists share common concerns...not the least of which is the right to earn a living wage and to work in a safe environment. The Festival emphasizes that art should belong to everyone, not just the elite; and that art can mirror the concerns and crises of society. In these difficult economic times, when the labour movement and the arts are both under attack, it is only natural that we support one another.
